

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my renewed interest in an internship at Greentube GmbH, following my initial application made on an unsolicited basis after visiting your booth at the FH Technikum Wien expo on October 9, 2024. I recently discovered the intern Games Studio position and am excited to formally reapply, as this opportunity aligns closely with my skills and aspirations.

As a final-year Computer Science student at FH Technikum Wien, I am required to complete an 11-week full-time internship between February and May 2024. Although I understand that Greentube internships may typically extend beyond this period, starting the internship in February 2024 is essential for meeting my curriculum requirements.

My goal is not only to fulfill this requirement but to lay the groundwork for a future career at Greentube. I am highly motivated to contribute to your team and, in time, make a long-term impact at Greentube.

Both prior to and throughout my studies, I have developed a strong background in game development, particularly in C# and Unity. While Unity may not be the exact technology used at Greentube, my experience as a solo developer on a project published on Steam demonstrates my ability to bring a game from concept to completion. Through this process, I handled all aspects independently, including coding, designing mechanics, optimizing performance, and crafting the user experience. This experience taught me the value of high-quality, scalable, and maintainable code.

Thank you for considering my application. I am eager to explore the potential to join Greentube and look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,

Mehmet Melih Solt
